Habitat for Humanity of Greater Cincinnati Celebrates
One Year Anniversary of Florence ReStore Opening

10/30/2013 – Habitat for Humanity of Greater Cincinnati (HFHGC) will celebrate the one year anniversary of its Florence, KY ReStore on Saturday, November 2, 2013 from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Located at 8309 US 42, the Florence ReStore is one of four ReStores operated by Habitat for Humanity of Greater Cincinnati. “Our ReStores are multi-purpose. They provide an outlet for the recycling and reuse of used and surplus materials while promoting sustainable living, and the reduction of waste to the landfill. But also, the proceeds from sales in the ReStores funnel back to building affordable housing and creating homeownership opportunities in our communities” said Ed Lee, Habitat for Humanity of Greater Cincinnati President and CEO.

“This celebration will also serve as a “thank you” to the City of Florence, our customers, neighboring businesses, and the community that has welcomed and supported us this past year” said Casey Huber, ReStore Director, who oversees all of Habitat for Humanity of Greater Cincinnati’s ReStores.

The media and the public is invited to join ReStore staff and volunteers in the festivities which includes a visit from the Chick-fil-A Cow, the Kentucky Speedway Pace Car, free food and drink while they last, and an opportunity to support Habitat for Humanity of Greater Cincinnati by purchasing Chick-fil-A sandwiches.

The ReStore has something for everyone. It is a cost-effective outlet for home improvement projects that is open to the public. Quality used and surplus building materials are available at reduced prices and profits from the ReStore help fund Habitat for Humanity of Greater Cincinnati’s mission of providing affordable housing to low-income families in nine counties throughout the tri-state area of Ohio, Kentucky, and Indiana.
